in Białystok

has the honour to invite you to take part in the 1st Scientific Congress:

Man in the age of contemporary challenges and threats

which will be held 10 – 11 May 2018

It is well known that nowadays, with the development of civilisation, there is an increasing threat to both individuals and society as a whole. For a man living in the age of terrorism, conflict and other determinants of globalisation, the need for security has become equal to physiological needs thus generating motivation for action and development. From this perspective, it is worthwhile to look at the aspects of threats and face the challenges of the contemporary world in relation to different fields of social sciences.

The aim of the Congress is to evaluate the threats and challenges of the present day which determine the quality of life and safety of people, to share achievements, experiences and opinions as well as to discuss and present the scientific accomplishments of the researchers and theoreticians from universities and non-academic institutions from Poland and abroad.
